FOURTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME JANUARY 28, 2024

From the Pastor's Desk

Fourth Sunday in Ordinary Time
January 28, 2024
Mark 1:21-28

Dear Ascension Family,

Blessings of peace and good health! As your pastor, I would like to thank everyone for their unwavering support and generosity in reaching our goal for the 2023 Annual Catholic Appeal. In fact, we exceeded our goal. Our goal is $51,617.00, and the final amount reached is $66,831.06. A special thanks to our Director of Stewardship, Yolanda De Castro. Thank you very much!

In the time of Jesus, the Jews had two centers where they celebrated and nurtured their faith: the temple in Jerusalem and the local synagogue. The temple was the only place where they offered sacrifices and/or ritual offerings. It was in the synagogue where they gathered every Saturday (Sabbath) and conducted religious services which consisted of readings (with commentary) from the Law and the Prophets, and prayers. The readings were done by well-instructed members of the assembly or by visitors who were experts in Scripture.

The gospel reading tells us that Jesus was teaching in the synagogue of Capernaum. The people were astonished at his teaching, for he taught with authority. He would often say in complete boldness, "You have heard how it was said . . . but I say to you." The authority he spoke with was essentially his own. He did not quote from other teachers as was the custom of many teachers at that time. He spoke as one who knew what he was talking about and new that he was speaking the words of God.

But, more importantly, this authority in speech was backed by something even more impressive: the authority to act in mighty deeds. His miracles, the casting out of demons, his curing the sick who come to him were but manifestations of his power. In other words, with Jesus, word and action went together. The words from God which he spoke were wedded to the acts of God which he performed. Because of this Jesus amazed and mystified his listeners.

The gospel reading today presents Jesus healing the man who was possessed by an unclean spirit. The people in the gospel reading reacted by asking, "What is this?" What is the meaning behind Jesus' power to expel the unclean spirit? It means that Jesus has come to destroy the power of Satan. It means that the kingdom of Satan, which enslaved people since Adam's sin, is now giving way to the kingdom of God. But it does not mean that Satan is not putting up a fight.

I am reminded of a story about a rich man, who was also very stingy. By God's grace, he underwent conversion. He realized that he was only the caretaker of his wealth. Not long after his conversion, there came to his door a poor neighbor who needed food. The rich man decided to give his poor neighbor a ham from his smokehouse. On his way to the ham the devil whispered to him: "Give him the smallest ham you can find."

The rich man had a struggle with his old stingy spirit, but finally his new generous spirit won out. He picked out the largest ham he could find. "You are a fool," the devil sneered. But the converted rich man silenced him: "If you don't stop, I will give him every ham I have."

Now what does the gospel reading say to each one of us? Although there are reported cases of demon possession in our modern society, these are not many. But in our modern society Satan operates in a more subtle way. Each of us, to some extent, has an unclean spirit in us. In fact, the "unclean spirit" that Jesus casts out of the man in today's gospel reading serves as a symbol of the voice of evil that sometimes speaks within us - the voice of pride, greed, anger, lust, self-righteousness, revenge. We can be "possessed" by "demons" who discourage us and plague us with fear when we consider the unpopular position that we know is right; or the "demon" of rationalization that falsely justifies actions, or inactions, that we know in our heart is contrary to the values and teachings of Jesus; or the "demon" of selfishness that keeps us from being generous as we should be. We all have a responsibility when it comes to spreading God's kingdom on earth. Yet how much energy, time, talent, or resources do we devote to this?

No matter what form the evil one takes we can always count on Christ to help us. Our Lord drove out the devil many times during his life on this earth, as the gospel reading today shows us. But Satan is putting up a fight. He even succeeded in killing Christ not on the cross. It looked as if the evil one had finally and completely won. But the resurrection gave Christ the victory. Jesus has given us the grace and the means to triumph with him over the devil.

Praying for you all,

Fr. Anacleto

EUCARISTIC REVIVAL 2022-2024
EXPLANATION OF THE MASS

After a series of short catechesis on the sacrament of the Eucharist, we will now have a series of short explanation of the different parts of the Mass.

Offertory Procession: In the Offertory Procession, the faithful bring forward the Bread and Wine for the Consecration, that are placed on the altar; and other gifts in cash or kinds, which are placed in a suitable place but away from the altar. In the order of procession bread and wine must always come last. The Procession of the Gifts is accompanied by the offertory song.

Offerings in Cash and Kinds: The faithful wholeheartedly and generously offer their gifts in cash or kinds, intended for the poor or for the needs of the Church. The offering of Cain was rejected, because he grudgingly offered some spoiled fruits of the soil; while the offering of his brother Abel was accepted, because he generously offered the best lambs of his flock (Genesis 4:2-5). According to the Scriptures, one tenth of our net income - known as "tithing" - should be offered to the Lord and to charity (Leviticus 27:30-32); and it should be offered wholeheartedly, because "the Lord loves a cheerful giver"(2 Corinthians 9:7).

Bread and Wine: The Bread and Wine are the matter of the Eucharist. The unleavened Bread for the Consecration must be made of flour from wheat and water, the wine of grapes. The bread is also called "host" from the Latin word hostio, meaning "victim" for a sacrifice. In the first centuries, the priest broke the bread into small pieces and gave to the faithful, as Jesus did at the Last Supper; but as the number of communicants increased, the Church decided for practical purposes to use individual hosts.

Saint's Corner:

St. Francis de Sales
January 24

Francis, born in 1567, was destined by his father to be a lawyer so that the young man could eventually take his place as a senator from the province of Savoy in France. So Francis was sent to Padua to study law. After his studies, he returned home and, in due time, told his parents he wanted to become a priest. His father strongly opposed it, but after much patient persuasion on the part of Francis did his father finally consent.

Francis was ordained to the priesthood and at thirty-five he became bishop of Geneva (Switzerland). Francis lived during the difficult years following the Protestant Reformation. His diocese was then a center for the Calvinist (Calvinism was one of the Protestant sects). While administering his diocese, he set out to convert the Calvinists. Aside from preaching and distributing pamphlets, he wrote to explain true Catholic doctrine, his gentle character was a great asset in winning souls.

Francis was known for his gentleness. As he said himself, it took him twenty years to conquer his quick temper, but no one ever suspected he had such a problem. His perennial gentleness won for him the title of "Gentleman Saint." He practiced his own axiom, "A spoonful of honey attracts more flies than a barrelful of vinegar." He treated everyone, even his opponents with respect. He never took differences personally and was never cutting or biting in his response to opponents.

The wisdom of Francis de Sales is shown in his statement that no person's nature is so good that it cannot be distorted by sin and no person's nature is so bad that it cannot be transformed by God's grace.
