FIFTEENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME JULY 14, 2024

From the Pastor's Desk

15th Sunday in Ordinary Time
July 14, 2024
Mark 6:7-13

Dear Ascension Family,

Blessings of peace and good health!

It is with mixed emotions to let you know that Maryann Nepomuceno told me and the members of the Parish Finance Council last Monday, July 8, that she and her husband are moving out of New York City. Maryann, a long time parishioner of Ascension, is currently the Chairperson of the Parish Finance Council, a Lector, a former Trustee and a former Chairperson of the Parish Pastoral Council. Maryann is indeed an outstanding parishioner. She will be deeply missed. While we are sad to see her go, we are grateful for the opportunities we had to work with her. She is leaving us a legacy of dedication and commitment to serving the parish, which should serve as an inspiration to all of us. As an expression of our gratitude and appreciation, we will be giving Maryann a Certificate of Recognition at the 11:30am Mass this Sunday, July 14.

Maryann, thank you very much for your great and inspiring service to the parish! We wish you all the best in the new chapter of your life.

As we once again allow ourselves to be nourished by God's word, let us reflect on the gospel reading for today. Jesus summoned the twelve apostles and sent them on their mission. Before sending them out, Jesus gave them detailed instructions on how to carry out their mission. "Take nothing for the journey but a walking stick - no food, no sack, no money in their belts. . . not even a second tunic." The instructions are a bit odd, especially today. For even the most austere self-sacrificing missionary today would have at least a backpack!

When we priests are transferred to another assignment, one problem we have is carrying the things we have accumulated in our previous assignments. These may be personal apparel and books. You know, each priest has a particular interest or hobby. So a priest brings around, not only books and personal apparel, but also electronic gadgets, musical instruments, picture albums, wall decorations, athletic equipments and other bodybuilding paraphernalia. As one veteran priest observed, in his younger years he could fit all his things inside his car and transfer with a few minutes' notice. Now, after several years, he needs a container van.

There was a Peanuts comic strip, which shows Charlie Brown getting ready to go out to play in the snow. He puts on the thermal underwear, the sweater, the outer coat, mittens and cap. He was so bundled up that he gets stuck at the door and cannot move an inch. So he starts screaming at the top of his voice.

Many of us are inclined to think that only bishops, priests and religious are called to mission. But the Decree on the Laity of Vatican II is quite clear when it said, "Incorporated into Christ's Mystical Body through baptism and strengthened by the power of the Holy Spirit through confirmation, the laity are assigned to the apostolate by the Lord himself" (No. 3). Thus by virtue of our baptism and confirmation, we are all called to be apostles of Christ, and as such we are to proclaim and bear witness to him and his message to the extent that we are able. In our day, we are to do this by word and example before the people we are directly in contact with - our families, our peers, our co-workers and those in our immediate community. For as the same Decree further says, "The very testimony of their Christian life and good words done in supernatural spirit, have the power to draw men to belief and to God"(No. 6). In other words, all of us, by our baptism and confirmation, are called to be apostles, to bring the message of Christ to the world around us by word, action and style of life.

We live in a consumeristic society where our value as persons and our efficiency are measured by how much we possess. Thus, we tend to accumulate things. But the things, which we accumulate, encumber not only our movement but also our hearts. So, the things we gather in the course of our life often serve no longer as helps but as obstacles to our mission. If we are to be effective apostles, we have to learn to let go and let God. This is the other reason Jesus instructed his apostles to travel light. He wanted them to put their trust in God and not in things. Unfortunately, very often we put a disproportionately great reliance on material resources. We fail to realize that it is not those who have the most but those who put the most trust in God who become his best instruments. The saints and effective apostles have been characteristically people who live in great simplicity and put their absolute trust in God. Mother St. Teresa of Calcutta has provided us an example of great detachment and trust in God bearing abundant spiritual fruits.

Praying for you all,
Fr. Anacleto

Saint's Corner:

St. Camillus de Lellis

July 18

“Logos” are symbols that represent companies, groups and products. One of the most familiar logos around the world is the “red cross.” It represents health service and care. The first person to wear a red cross as an emblem of someone who cares for the sick is St. Camillus de Lellis.

Camillus was born in 1550 in Italy. He came from a military family. He had been addicted to gambling that kept him in poverty. To pay his debts, he would fight in local wars that pervaded Italy in those days as a mercenary. One day he was seriously wounded and was brought to a hospital in Rome where he received horrible care.

His terrible experience at the hospital opened the door to his real vocation. Camillus decided to do what he could to improve medical care for others. He gave up gambling and decided to fill the gap in his life by caring for the sick. He started a group of men who would tend to people’s medical needs. Their insignia was a habit with a bold red cross on it. Camillus was later ordained to the priesthood and his group became a religious congregation - the Congregation of the Servants of the Sick, later called the “Camillians.”

Their symbol of a red cross on their habit became the remote beginning of the formal institution of the “red cross” at the Geneva Convention in 1800’s as the symbol for international health care workers (the red crescent was later added for Islamic countries).

Camillus de Lellis died at the age of sixty-four and was named patron saint of health care workers, nurses and hospital personnel.

There are lessons we can get from the life of St. Camillus. His own terrible hospital experience did not make him bitter but gave him the resolve to do something to assure that others would not undergo the same negligent treatment. He also sought to treat the entire person - body and spirit. The emphasis he gave to physical health was matched by care for their soul and spirit. As a priest, he could tend to their spiritual care as well as their physical condition.
